Custom-made products
from RION

You can customize your hardware and software to meet your requests

Our strength lies in the fact that we develop our own sensors, hardware, and software. We can propose custom-made products to meet your requests.

Our skilled technical developers will attend the meeting with you to discuss the specifications and receive your detailed requests. We are responsible for the on-site installation and adjustment as well. Please provide us with your requests for large-scale custom-made systems combined with peripheral equipment, as well as modifications of cables and other fine-tuned components.
